Combine Is Sequel to Foreign Export Restrictions Enforced During the War.

TOKIO, June 5 (Correspondence of the Associated Press) .- The Oriental Steel Company, the new Japanese twenty-five-million-dollar corporation, has begun operations and plans to tion, has begun operations and plans to turn out steel on a gigantic scale. The combine is an outgrowth of restrictions enforced by foreign countries on the export of steel during the war. The company will get its ore from the Tong Chung mines of China and from Korea.

The works are at Tobata, on the northern coast of Kyusha, one of the industrial centers of Japan. The workshops are modeled after the workshops are modeled after largest steel works in the United States and Europe. Every attention will be paid to the comfort and well-being of the staff and the workers.
